

The running head is a shortened version ( $\leq 50$  characters) of the paper's title in all caps and appearing on every page. It is technically not required in student papers unless requested by the Instructor

The page numbers are in the upper right-hand corner.

The full title will be bolded, centered, and in the upper half of the first page (3-4 lines down). It should also be separated from the rest of the title page information by one empty line.
